ABSTRACT

A 2-part annotated bibliography is designed to assist school administrators, library media specialists, and teachers in selecting materials for their social studies programs in grades 9 through 12. Resources were selected by Maryland educators according to five criteria: state goals and subgoals for social studies, quality of materials, currentness of the selected items, previous use by Maryland schools, and appropriateness for grades 9-12. In the first part, over 650 books, filmstrips, and audio-visual packages, most published between 1970 and 1984, are listed alphabetically by title. Each citation includes bibliographic information and a brief annotation. In the second part titles are tagged to each of the Maryland goals and subgoals for social studies instruction contained in "Social Studies: A Maryland Curricular Framework." Each title is accompanied by appropriate grade level and a cross-reference to its annotation in the first section of the document. (LP)

Foreword

Resources for Secondary Social Studies Instruction is designed to assist Maryland school administrators, library media specialists, and teachers in selecting materials for their 9-12 social studies programs. The secondary materials included in this document were selected by local teachers, social studies supervisors, and library media specialists from across the state according to the following criteria:

- State goals and subgoals for social studies instruction;
- Quality of materials;
- Currentness of the selected items;
- Previous use in Maryland schools; and
- Appropriateness for grades K-8.

Materials are intended for local review in accordance with each local education agency's board adopted evaluation and selection policies.

Local social studies programs in Maryland are required by 1985 to incorporate the seven board goals and subgoals contained in Social Studies: A Maryland Curricular Framework. These goals and subgoals focus on the development of an informed citizenry capable of making responsible decisions. Five of the goals are taught in an historical context and form part of the content of the following programs: political science, economics, sociology/psychology, global awareness, and geography. A sixth goal is aimed at developing skills necessary for informed decision making. A seventh goal stresses the development of democratic attitudes needed for responsible decision making.

The Division of Instruction and the Division of Library Development and Services hopes this material will be helpful in selecting, developing, and modifying local 9-12 social studies programs to incorporate these state goals and subgoals.
